

Autotrader Shares Spring Cleaning Tips For Car Owners

Spring into car care with these easy tips

ATLANTA, March 15, 2016 /PRNewswire/ -- Clearing and cleaning is an annual spring tradition, but a thorough clean is not just needed for the inside of your home. Spring is in the air and the experts at Autotrader® are helping car owners get ready for the change of seasons.

"Most drivers know about the importance of keeping up with their vehicle's maintenance, and simple regular upkeep is one of the easiest ways to increase driving safety," said Brian Moody, executive editor at Autotrader. "Effectively maintaining a car means more than making needed repairs; certain regular tasks can actually help prevent damage or things breaking in the first place."

From cleaning your hood, to looking under your hood, here are the top tips from Autotrader on spring car care:

- Wash and Wax: A good, thorough wash and wax is the most important thing to do with your car once the winter is over. Winter driving can cause a huge amount of road grime, debris and – worst of all – salt to build up on your car. You want to make sure those items are long gone before spring starts. Allowing debris and grime to build up on your car can affect its paint and finish, while allowing salt to build up can lead to rust and other serious problems.
- Clean the Inside, Too: Nobody wants to spend time cleaning out their car during a cold winter day. That's why spring is the perfect time to clean your car's interior, so spend a day doing some spring-cleaning. Remove and throw away all the interior papers, trash and other items that have accrued over the winter.
- Check Your Tire Pressures: As air temperatures get cooler during the winter, tire pressures decrease, which probably caused you to fill up your tires during the winter months. But as air gets warmer again in the spring, tire pressures can increase. Tire pressure above the vehicle manufacturer specification can adversely affect your car's drivability and fuel economy.
- Check Under the Hood: Do a thorough check under the hood to make sure your car's engine made it through the winter unscathed. Specifically, check belts and hoses to ensure the cold temperatures haven't rendered them brittle or heavily worn. If you aren't comfortable performing these checks on your own, contact a local mechanic.
- Check Alignment and Suspension: Winter is known for being harsh on roads, and that in turn can be harsh on your vehicle. If you find yourself frequently traversing roads with huge potholes or rocks that have emerged from the asphalt, it could ruin your car's alignment or damage suspension components.
