

AutoTrader.com Offers Site Enhancements for Users; Consumers Can Now Compare New and Used Cars and Email Car Photos to Friends

PRNewswire
ATLANTA

AutoTrader.com, the number one automotive classified website on the planet, announced today new features that enhance consumers' abilities to search for new and used cars online.

The first tool allows consumers to compare both new and used vehicle information side-by-side. AutoTrader.com's Research & Compare section previously offered space for three used cars at one time. Now consumers can compare both new and used cars in five categories: pricing & warranties, safety features, features & options and technical specifications as well as view detailed model information for each vehicle.

In addition, AutoTrader.com gives consumers the ability to email vehicle listings to a friend. This new tool makes it easier for customers to share information about used vehicles found on the site. The email functionality lets users email a link to photographs and vehicle listing information to family and friends.

"We are always looking for ways to improve the car shopping experience on AutoTrader.com," said Chip Perry, president and chief executive officer of AutoTrader.com. "The email functionality and enhancements to the Research & Compare tool help consumers make better decisions when buying new and used vehicles."
