

Cox Enterprises Partners with Providence Equity; Providence Acquires 25-Percent Equity Stake in AutoTrader.com

Cox will continue to manage and operate AutoTrader.com

Cox Enterprises, Inc. announced today an agreement with Providence Equity Partners, by which Providence will acquire a 25-percent equity interest in Cox's AutoTrader.com subsidiary. AutoTrader.com is the Internet's largest automotive shopping and advertising site, and Providence Equity is the leading global private equity firm specializing in equity investments in media, communications and information services companies. With this agreement, Cox Enterprises will gain access to additional investment capital and expertise to help accelerate AutoTrader.com's growth.

Cox will maintain majority ownership and operating control of AutoTrader.com, and Providence's ownership will have no impact on day-to-day operations. Providence will assume two seats on AutoTrader.com's Board of Directors.

"This agreement demonstrates our commitment to AutoTrader.com's continued success and will speed its future growth as the leader in the online auto space," said Jimmy Hayes, president and chief executive officer, Cox Enterprises. "Providence Equity has a strong track record of working with communications, media and Internet companies to promote growth and encourage strategic expansion."

"All of us at AutoTrader.com are excited to see Providence Equity invest in our company," said Chip Perry, CEO and president, AutoTrader.com. "Their support will enable us to pursue the many organic growth opportunities, as well as strategic acquisitions, that will help improve the products and services we offer our customers."

"Providence Equity has long admired the leadership team at Cox Enterprises and their track record of operational excellence," said Jonathan Nelson, chief executive officer of Providence. "We are extremely gratified to have been invited to partner with them in the continued growth and development of AutoTrader.com. Investing in a market leader that operates squarely in Providence's area of investment focus creates a tremendous opportunity for us to leverage our expertise and add value. We look forward to working with the exceptional management teams at both Cox Enterprises and AutoTrader.com to continue building a fantastic company."

Cox Enterprises and Providence Equity are committed to investing in AutoTrader.com's long-term growth. AutoTrader.com will draw on the industry expertise of both companies to maintain its market leadership.

Cox Enterprises and Providence Equity have signed a stock purchase agreement, and the transaction is expected to promptly close as soon as all necessary approvals have been obtained. Terms of the agreement are not being disclosed. Goldman, Sachs & Co. advised Cox in this transaction.
