

Refunds & Rides: AutoTrader.com Names "Eight Great American Cars to Spend a Tax Refund On"

The March edition of the AutoTrader.com Shopper Insights Report indicates the majority of car shoppers expect a refund, consider U.S.-made cars

ATLANTA, March 13, 2012 PRNewswire/ -- Tax time means big refunds for some, and the availability of these extra funds often results in a boost for automotive shopping behavior in March and April. The average tax refund in 2011 was $2,913 -- enough to put a 10 percent down payment on a new car worth almost $30,000. According to a new survey conducted by AutoTrader.com, 56 percent of respondents are expecting a substantial refund in 2012. Additionally, the survey indicated that a substantial proportion of car shoppers have a desire to keep the money they spend on a car in the domestic economy; 39 percent said it was very important to buy a car that is actually built in the U.S., and 23 percent that said it is very important that the car be from a domestic automaker.

This attitude was supported by respondents' further selections when asked about what types of vehicles they are considering. Seventy-four percent of shoppers said they would consider buying a vehicle that was made by a domestic manufacturer and built in the U.S. Additionally, 67 percent said they would consider a vehicle made by a foreign manufacturer if it was actually built in the U.S.

"With the great strides made by the domestic manufacturers in the last three years, it is no wonder that consumers are open to cars coming from the Big Three," said Rick Wainschel, vice president of automotive insights at AutoTrader.com. "Domestic manufacturing of new cars creates jobs in the U.S., so this interest is a great sign that the American economy could see a big boost from people spending their tax refunds on GM, Chrysler Group, and Ford models."

With shoppers' interest in buying domestic, the experts at AutoTrader.com recommended picks for "Eight Great American Cars to Spend a Tax Refund On."
