Car shoppers using Edmunds.com's extensive research tools can click through and search AutoTrader.com's three million vehicle listings. And, with the recent launch of "My AutoTrader.com," they can now save vehicles and searches to their personal "My AutoTrader.com" space.

Those looking to sell their used cars can easily determine the average transaction price for specific vehicles using the Edmunds.com True Market Value® Used Vehicle Appraiser and then list the vehicles for sale on AutoTrader.com.

"The AutoTrader.com and Edmunds.com tools help provide consumers with the complete set of car buying and selling resources, all easy and convenient to use," said Chip Perry, president and chief executive officer, AutoTrader.com.

"Around 45 million people buy used cars each year, and about 80 percent of them use the Internet," said Jeremy Anwyl, president of Edmunds.com. "We anticipate this percentage will continue to rise as more people discover the convenience and effectiveness of AutoTrader.com and Edmunds.com."

AutoTrader.com and Edmunds.com have had an exclusive partnership since 2004. The renewed two-year agreement began July 15, 2006.
