The company received the industry's highest used-lead scores for Overall Satisfaction, Business Generation, Dealer Support/Service, Transmission of Leads and Advertising, leading the nine other competitors in the study in each satisfaction category. According to the study, AutoTrader.com's strength is in the Business Generation measure, with the highest closing ratio on the used- vehicle leads it provides dealers.

In addition, AutoTrader.com received the highest scores and is considered the "Best Practice" in all 14 dealer satisfaction attributes, providing high quantity and quality of leads and assisting in selling more certified pre-owned vehicles.

For the first time, AutoTrader.com was also ranked for new-vehicle leads. The company ranks second highest in Overall Satisfaction among new-lead providers and has the second highest new-vehicle closing ratio. AutoTrader.com also received the highest scores in one of the five new-lead measures: Transmission of Leads. The J.D. Power and Associates study reported AutoTrader.com performed well in the Business Generation (for Quality of Leads and Incremental Business attributes) and Dealer Support/Service measures.

"The Dealer Satisfaction with Online Buying Services Study not only reinforces AutoTrader.com's leadership among used-vehicle services, but it also demonstrates our ability to make a strong connection with new-vehicle shoppers," said Chip Perry, president and chief executive officer, AutoTrader.com. "The study illustrates the value we deliver to our dealer customers as the ultimate automotive marketplace."
